Thomas Sandell's new armchair for Offecct invites people to spend more time at the table.

Thomas Sandell is one of Scandinavia's most respected architects and designers. He has previously created acclaimed furniture for Offecct, in the form of a sofa, a chair and an acoustic panel. This time, the ambition was a chair for restaurants and conferences.

Initially, Thomas Sandell considered creating a kind of hybrid between a bentwood wiener chair and an armchair. The wood was eventually replaced by steel pipes. In any event, the focus was on long sittings.

– Consist represents two trends that have become increasingly evident in recent years, says Thomas Sandell. We spend more and more time at the dinner table. In restaurants as well as at home in the kitchen. And we appreciate public places that make us feel at home. The armchair, which signals high quality, is highly comfortable and hugs the user, hence the name. Consist does however not necessarily need to be placed at a table, if the designer is to be believed.

– Consist is suitable in lounges and lobbies. Not to mention the hotel's conference department. This is a multi-functional armchair. With the armchair Consist the long and successful collaboration between Offecct and Thomas Sandell continues. Previous design for Offecct; King easy chair, 2008 and Soundwave® Ceramic acoustic panel 2017.
